

Voice 'Laboratory'

With Eran Natan

I would like to invite you to participate in an experimental and energetic voice 'laboratory' workshop. The workshop will focus on new and unexplored methods to use our voices, in order to encourage us to discover the depth of our voice in a creative and individual way.

The workshop will include voice exercises that will enable us to 'play' with our voices in a supportive group. We will look at ways to improve our listening skills and to work with our breath. We will also explore together toning, voicing through movement and voice improvisation. There is no need for previous voice experience.

When and where?

Friday 31/10/08 7:00-9:00 pm, London
Buddhist Arts Centre (LBAC), 2nd floor of Eastbourne House, Bullards Place, E2 0PT
(closest tube – Bethnal Green).

The workshop is free of charge; participants will only be asked to help cover the space's rent fee. Please allow 10 min. walk from the tube station to the space. The doors will be open from 6:30 pm.

About me:

I am a graduate of the Sesame MA Drama and Movement Therapy program and a qualified special needs and drama teacher. I am currently working as a dramatherapist, focusing on voice exploration. I have participated in different voice workshops ran by Frankie Armstrong, Guy Dartnell (Voicemotion) and Margaret Pikes (following the Roy Hart approach) and practiced different methods such as Overtones. In addition I ran a few voice workshops, also at the Sesame summer school.
